YOUNG FOLKS' LEAGUE.

TH. I. A.

.... Greeting

WE bid you all a hearty welcome to this, our second annual entertainment and reception.

Last year we introduced ourselves as a young league numbering about one hundred members, struggling for a foremost place among the leagues connected with the charitable institutions of this city. Confident though we were of ultimate success, we nevertheless realized that we had yet to prove our right to recognition as a live factor in the affairs of the Hebrew Infant Asylum. With an energy and determination that insured success, we started towards our goal. We greet you to-night, flushed with success, the recognized and honored auxiliary of one of the noblest charities of which our city can boast. Our membership has more than doubled itself. We have already contributed over thirteen hundred dollars to the institution, and have illustrated by practical experience, that one of the strongest foundations on which a charitable institution can rest, is a body of young, indefatigable

Crawfordsville, Ind., Aug. 19, 1896.

Mr. Jules Haar.

Your letter in behalf of the Hebrew Infant Asylum is irresistible, and I am delighted to be thought sufficient in influence to help forward a charity so deserving and noble.

One of the many excellent traits of the Hebrew character is made manifest in the devotion of the race to its poor and helpless. This has always been the case, and,
whether attributable to wide or inherent sympathy, is am-mendable in the highest degree.

Permit me to wish the coming affair a success answerable to your hopes.

Lew. Wallace.

workers, immured heart and soul in the work of alleviating distress and suffering.

A glance through the pages of this Souvenir will prove how our work is commended by some of the most prominent men of this country, and the letter of Gen. Lew Wallace, wherein he says "one of the many excellent traits of the Hebrew character is made manifest in the devotion of the race to its poor and helpless," strikes the key note of the spirit which prompted us to organize, and which we know will prompt many of you to join our ranks.

Ours is a charity that must appeal to every heart, and we are confident that in issuing this appeal for assistance, we shall meet with a hearty response. Who will deny our orphaned little ones the care and attention which they receive at the Hebrew Infant Asylum? What heart will not be moved at the sight of so many poor, helpless infants lacking the blessings of a father's or a mother's care? What hand will hesitate to lend its assistance to help us ease and bless their little lives? Come join our ranks, share with us the great happiness of pouring volumes of sunshine into the hearts of our darlings. Help us clothe them, feed them, administer to their every want. Let us fill as far as is possible the void that the absence of a father or a mother has left in their little hearts, and remember this—"charity calls down a blessing upon the charitable."
