For the first time, the study found that the risk of developing a mental health problem was significantly higher for people who had been in a violent relationship than for those who had not. The study also found that the risk of developing a mental health problem was significantly higher for people who had been in a violent relationship than for those who had not.

A TRAVERS LA POLITIQUE

These authors also suggest that the high degree of correlation observed in the studies of human populations may be a consequence of the fact that the same genetic factors may be involved in both the development of the disease and the development of the immune response. This is supported by the fact that the same genetic factors have been found to be associated with both the disease and the immune response in some studies.
