M. Mead. Adolescence aux Samoa ⁵⁰⁵

(Coming of Age in Samoa. 1928)

Méthode : Ds 3 villages p chaque foyer on réunit les renseignements concernant le rang, la richesse, les relations avec les autres foyers.
- Tous les filles (68) de 9 à 20 a. servirent de sujets : - interviews standardisées
- tests peiles
- Échelle d'expressions et d'attitudes sur lesquelles l'expert marque celles qui sont celles du sujet

Résultat : La crise d'adolescence est moins fréquente et moins intense aux Samoa ; ce qui est dû aux 3 pchs suivants :

- ① Les enfants ont leur avenir H tracé à l'avance ; lorsqu'ils approchent de la maturité ils n'ont à choisir qu'entre 1 petit nombre d'alternatives
- ② l'organisation familiale est telle que l'enfant n'acquiesce à l'égard de l'adulte aucun sentiment de dépendance affective.
- ③ faible inhibition de la part de la soc.
en ce qui concerne l'expression de l'intérêt pour les q. sexuelles - hommes qui y ont des ma-nières ± admises d'exprimer et d'intéresser.
