" Whether we build prisons in order to restore the morality and religion of people or churches in which they are to worship God, the object is the same: and to all appearance, the remembrance and amendment of the former of the past, and the resolution with regard to the future part of life, will be more vigorous in the prison than in the church."

1771.

" The prisoner will not only daily fee his monitor for his spiritual sustenance, but likewise the messenger from heaven in the person of the clergyman who is also to attend him daily and assist him in examining his thoughts giving rest to his soul, and filling him with hopes of joyful days, would he with seek for them by the only means they are to be found; the intention being to bring ~~the~~ him to a right view of his condition, and from an enemy BnF MSS to convert him to a friend of society life." If we mean to conform to the Christian law, and make our policy and religion harmonize what plan can be more consistent."

r 222.

"The consideration of his immortal name, under the sheltering hand of Heaven and the word of scripture, will open his mind." He will feel his situation is an intermediate state between both worlds, and as a man must so either?" r 223.
