Earl Stanley - Sir George Lewis, come, as you probably know, in search of papers relative to the French Revolution - the greatest collection of which is in the Museum

M. de Ségurville said, from 9 to 10,000 pamphlets, he wished to see M. Clarke, but he is too valuable, had taken I started with him on Sat 9 last He was with the high priest I should never see him again;

His intellect
as good as lost
I should have thought we had

 Cooke, but had been on a visit before I had written;

His intellect however remains as good as ever, & Mr. Cooke & I had him speak with great clearness on that day, on many interesting subjects - Dr. W. Squawville has found difficulty in referring to the particular points he wanted as the papers are not arranged chronologically & the same but according to matter, & until a catalogue is made for the Museum, it is hardly possible to profit by them. I believe you refer to Mr. Cooke, & think it is? you will please to have

Adieu from you, if you would kindly write.

D. Spinkham has had a bad accident - fallen down stairs & hurt his head severely, but is doing well.

The Mr. & Mrs. Spinkham will have been married - & the Duke is in affliction - he is with the Duke of York at Students College.

We have been with the Duke Prince of Orange.

D. Spinkham is staying at home.

D. Spinkham is staying at home at Richmond - the Mr.

at St. James Ditch, etc.

6 miles from London for the Duc de Montpensier to a reception at the Spanish Embassy on Tuesday for the Comte Albuquerque, among the first he arrived was the Duke of the Princes, which was thought very good taste on this point, acknowledged with very good grace on dit by the Duc de Montpensier.

Understand the Emperor does not go to Manchester when he comes home. Now Money is expected.

The only name I have heard is the marriage of the King of Portugal, to the Princess Stephanie of Hohenzollern Sigmaringen, whose father is known in this country -

There are a great many - too many letters - morning & evening which made Madam Bocher remark when she was here a few days since, that if the text of our year was a little more succinct, and this a little briefer, it would be better for them not being

I have not yet
the change
book to meet Europe of Kippenberg
the Kippenberg
James Bocher
the publicist
not done
by what you
has become

In better for us! I have been out very little, for I have not felt disposed.

The Chaptouville's go this week to meet the Emperor & Empress of Russia at Kissengen.

The ~~book~~, in England, some Memoirs were shortly to be published but that does not seem to be the case by what you say. What has become of Alceis?
Should be glad to know.

My dear Miss Long a letter;
I believe her name was Miss Guizot

Ever with sincere regards Yours truly, Allan P. S.

I have just had a visit from the Duke of Rutland who tells me the Duke's bill is sure to be thrown out in the House of Lords.
