Brighton. October 24. 1859.

My dear Madame Guizot,

I write a line to remind you (the! I am sure will think you unreasonable for having been several times absent the occasion) that it is a long time since I have had the pleasure of hearing from you.

I intend going to Paris in January but shall have a great trouble to me to think that there can't be any chance of my seeing you at the time.
I have been for a little change.

for I have not left home since last Jan. (a long time I know for any English person to remain in the same place.)

I am so sorry for the poor Elliot's having lost this letter. I do not know where Missions & Reply are - I had sent the letter some weeks since the Alman des deux Mondes, containing two articles on Belgium - I have not heard from any of them, & so

I conclude that

One Indian

I believe is

I conclude they are in Elam.

One Indian news impression, I believe in John Campbell entertains no doubt of the early fall of Delhi, & is waiting for further intelligence before he goes there himself.

The address of the Government has not yet given satisfaction here.

Mr. Wemyss has just left London on their return to Elam.
His book is really coming out but I believe it is (I have seen has attracted the most piquant hands. There is another book lately published (the 'Guide of Southern Coast' / which is thought to be well written by J. D.

Duffin - his 'Gates of the & Rosary' - Will you allow me to send either, or both of them - the former when it appears. ?
Mr. Milner has examined O. Duffin's & W. Edinburgh & W. Milner is now here & desires me to say he is willing to have your son. I shall be glad to receive your son's copy of the 'Gates of the Rosary'.
I had not time to forward your letter to Mr. Croker.
