South Hill. Nov. 16. 1853.

My dear Madame Guizot.

I am happy to give a good account of C. Johnson, he is improving, tho' his recovery has not been very rapid.

He. the surgeon has been with him - the Dr. M. P. is not going, but that visit has been given up for the present,

I am sure you would have one lesson for the poor Egypt family at Charente, One has told me news of the sudden death;

h. a happy day's work
a case ^{just} early account - So Parliament still retains its unlucky prestige - Not many days since the poor Aff. de Roumanie said himself.
"At last the hand broken the unlucky spell" but it was not without alarms. The loyal family have felt it very much - I saw the Hand of Cambridge
Saturday, who begged me to give her respects to you.

Parliament is tired for a few
to enable the
a bill of health
bank business
that the bank
h. have bank
come off better
It had only a 12 bank's is assassinated
Paris is but it cannot especially

Parliament is to meet on 11th. I think for a fortnight - in order to enable the Govt. to obtain a bill of indemnity for their bank business. I hear that the Bank of England is here broken, but it will come off ultimately to its aid It had only a million surplus left, & the banking of many of the 12 banks in London, W. have assumed it. The panic is now subsiding, but it caused a great alarm, especially to the Scotch

& I - among the many.

The Indian power is better on the whole - we have from the P. & S. who had reached Allahabad with a hundred Scamers only. - had been made Governor of that Fort.

There is a petition from by the inhabitants of Calcutta W. S. & Co.
relating to the removal of P. Canning.

Specimens of P. Canning's work to be seen. - P. Canning's is not yet published.

By all accounts it is neither very serious or well-written.
Lord John told me, he had read it. O. P. Cameron insisted on the suppression of some parts. I have sent Livingston's 'Office' just published, of which I am sure you are partial to - &
I thought might interest you.
Believe me dear Thomas friend with sincere regards
Yours truly James M. Smith

Have Mr. & Mrs. de la Roche have just arrived at Charente.

Will you remember me kindly to your daughter if they should be with you.
