Marble Hill. January 4. 1858.

My dear Monsieur Guizot,

May Heaven my best wishes for the New Year.

I indeed, regretted extremely not having the pleasure of seeing you when I was in Paris.

I am glad to be able to send Geology back the other day, it is now out of print & it was an extraordinary chance by finding the copy.

It seems all much interested in M. de Montalambert's case -

Will he now accept the pardon?

With regard to our present position desire proposed, I am assured they will do all in their power to maintain it - I. P. Doherty all are unanimous on that point I am certain.

The Reform bill for known will be the first question, I do not believe all the Country is opposed to it, but it is agitated by certain parties, for purposes not known to themselves.
All will naturally wait to see what the Govt plan is - before they

and what comes that place may be, then it is the attacked.

We passed two days at Windsor last week - The Queen was looking extremely well.
She takes a great deal of exercise, even in this damp & hard weather - She has been much ill in all parts of the country & she has had to displace the loss of many friends - Her late brother's death was very unexpected - The Queen has Remained in so great affliction since, that his family are scarcely about him - Poor Mr & Mrs Jessey are inconsolable at the loss of their daughter. What a sad thing that was!

Then the death of Mr. Dawson (Dr. Charles's sister) a few days since from having swallowed a bottle full of Laudanum, is mistaken for another medicine.
All these losses, & the death of Dr. William who was so well known, has caused a deep gloom in society.

We have been for a few days to Hastings, D. Schibergs, & have seen friends D. Halmarsberg, this a very fine old place.

Probably you have seen it.

Believe me dear Madame Guizot Ever most truly yours.
