March 10th. Feb. 1. 1862.

My dear Madame Guizot.

It gave me great pleasure to receive your letter - It was so long a time since you had written that I was afraid you had entirely forgotten me.

I have not yet found a day to go to Paris, but hope to do so shortly.

There is always so much to do at home, it is difficult to get away even for a little time.

It will be impossible for you

Not it came to England this season to see our exhibition!

but with our friends, the great delay upon it.

Every thing has been dull in London for some time past seeing little sad Count which has befallen us, with the death of the Prince Consort - How Parliament may revive a little more interest.

The Efforts seem to have come to London today - but I shall be too busy

some time with
I feel sure in

I presume

is too small - I passed some time with her yesterday, I feel surprised about her - she was suffering so much from a febrile attack.
I shall go to Orleans on Wed? for the first time.
I have some poor French songs -
'There is the time of life when affliction is most bitterly felt, because if stronger there is buoyancy of spirit & overcome it - And older - we are expecting to follow her down. I fear she is more depressed than she was - but that was the expected.

In politics there is nothing new,
Ed Schuman has had

will diminish with this activity - but at 44.
one would think so!

King Leopold has also been indisposed at Buckingham Palace has returned & returning to Brussels.

I have been told the dece de Brahaut has had an attack of paralysis - which at his age is very unfortunate.

The Government take to themselves great credit for their conduct of the affair with the United States. but it was a case of policy they could hardly have avoided! It is thought to have strengthened their position by the popularity they have acquired in consequence.

And it has not been showing itself in the late elections, which have all been adverse. The Govt is certainly not in a hurry in the H^{of} of Commons.
Finance appears to be the most difficult point for them. There will be no budget before Easter.
The Off. of Cambridge is at Kew, and often compares with Shaw.
