London. July 28. 1841.

My dear Cousin Guizot

As soon as I returned home I endeavored to obtain Ed. Bronghton's Reminiscences, but found that it has only been printed for private circulation.
I offered it to the family, for a copy, as I was sure they would consider it a great treasure and wishing to have one; Anne Dick has seen (about Captain's wife married Ed. Bronghton's daughter) on the subject, and he said he would try to procure it for your personal, for that even the Queen had been expressed one. That seems extraordinary. I do not know how to account for it, since all they say there is some matter in it scarcely displeasing to the King. It is mentioned in the Edinburgh, or Expressly.

Shall I send for the Queen I think it is?

I had the great pleasure of having the opportunity to-day. She told a very long story
the Chamber.
Every one seemed London, the King sitting - and have longed for
for them.
have little failed universal his
the Order of St
to his father

and he said because it is, for that had been that seems do not account for it,
they say
the visit
Hansing D

It is common to, or constantly,
the presence

of having the offer of the following to-day. She told me she had a very long passage across the Channel.

Every one at present, has left London, the 'Parl.' is still sitting - Nothing can be more unexpected than the fact that his measures have either failed or given universal displeasure - The Duke of Richmond is to his father & brother

Can you get it sent, or be so good as to, which they say it will be all to carry.

He are going to handle him tomorrow.

It gave me so much pleasure to see him again
I hope in Paris, and looking so very well.

Believe me most truly yours

Miss P.W.
