West Molesey
Surrey

10 Mar. 48.

My dear Sir,

I shall be desirous of having the honour of seeing you in two or three days - that is, when my printer returns me my paper - Be so kind
as to let me know at what hour I should be most likely to find you at leisure for help and an hour. It is the more important that I should see you &

be ^{en}abled to state the case effectively, as I have a letter from Lord Brougham, in which I see he takes a very erroneous view of the matter - as indeed is natural, for as he was

was the chief
our mischief
he would you subm
dictation
opposition
direction.

If I understood
the proposition were 1 - a few
I reckon had
of the public 2 - the entire

was the chief engine of our mischievous reform, he would have had
you submit to the dictation of your opposition in the same direction.

If I understood right the propositions of reform were 1 - a place bill - that Jackson had little hold of the public mind - but 2 - the extension of the suffrage

Suffrage was to have been to the jury lists - from 200,000 to 900,000.

Could you give me in a few words the principles on which the electoral lists & the jury lists were respectively founded?

I trust that whenever you shall be at leisure - you & yours - to pay a town visit you will come here for a couple of days

Yours sincerely

W. Croker
