Mon cher ami,

Here is my view - or rather my continued-view of your revolution. If there be any thing in it
that you would have omitted or amended, do it
with your own pen - in pencil on the margin -

No one - not even Mr. Lockhart - shall know that you have seen it. There are a few pages more that Mr. Guizot I have

haven't yet had from the Printer - you shall have them in a day or two you see I have treated
the loyal family respectfully & I think kindly - as kindly as our principles (for I suppose you be have principles)
would allow - but in
think all the conservatives of the world have now a common cause.

Je trouble my paper
rather

rather long &
short too
he knows he
lately to
am deserving on a
tory of the
& to do so,
into these,
rather tedious

I shall
for the whole
week. i.e. for the 30th ^{of the month} - ~~party~~ part has seen

rather long & it seems to re= peat too much what the newspapers have so lately told us, but I am desirous of carry= ing on a kind of his= tory of the revolution, & to do so, I must enter into these, at the moment, rather tedious details.
I shall come to town
for the whole of the next week. i.e. from the 25th to the 30th ~~of the~~ and Mr Lock= hart has expressed a
wish

wish that you would dine with him some day in that week - I am very glad that my days are all engaged - but I shall call upon you the morning I come to town & shall endeavour to concert
some day that may suit you.

Mr. Lockhart writes to me that he is greatly
pleased with your travail. Ever yours

W. Lister

Pray observe what I saw about the King's pecuniary resources & correct any error there. It would do a great deal of good if we could say a few words to the poor - the poorer the better.
