My dear Sir

I receive your letter
by the evening post, &
have hence only time
to say that you will hear direct from Mr. Dock-hart (to whom I write to night) an answer to your letter of yesterday.

You will have seen
that you were mistaken
in thinking the debate
on the assembly would

go off on an order of the day, but you may nevertheless be right
that the enquiry will
have no immediate results - No moral in~~fluences~~ "vous sortez déjà acquis" How happy
should be the King & you or rather I should say how grateful that these revelations have come to remove from
you every suspicion of having

having in a
letter to the & an abuse
revolt.
by the bar
Mazurite.
Louis Bl
dinner that have to read
the papers he reached me
as I found a
reminiscence
hope may be
proofs of the

having in any way contributed to this infamous & as abused as infamous,
revolt. I am struck by the largeness of the Majorities against
Louis Blanc & Coudé.
I have not yet had
time to read the debate
the papers have but just reached me, but I see,
as I glance at them, some recriminations, which I hope may produce further proofs of the low spirit of this

This gigantic intrigue must, to be sure, have such enormous consequences produced by such mean motives - empty heads &
suble hands.

Can you account for the ~~long~~ the Debates is taking - It seems to me as if it began to take a wrong way - an serious & to make friends with the Mammon of our righteous men - I shall beat it off & stick to the Assemblée Nationale - the People & the Reform.

Yours sincerely

W. Lush
