Gaspard
20th Sept 40

My dear Sir

You will I hope have had the coins. You will see that Jerome Paturot has increased in bulk & importance - & you will observe that the two or three best samples in it are copied from your letters to me. I hope the French papers.

Superior will take up the hint I have given to Cavaignac's having cut off ten heads per son is well committed,
no one knew by whom but apparently only by one, on his "brave et digne ami Dautigny" whom M. Riquie told discussions on the party of Cavaignac. Since the General

General
man could father, ...
friends for
well word
not being allusion
he may be been ... no leave to disrupt Cavaignac
& Dautigny

General has made common cause with his father, I trust this historical point will be well worked - there need not be any further
allusion to the General;
he may be supposed
non vocem - but let us leave the historical disquisition as to Cavaignac, Poinet & Dautrayle - that I suppose

Suppose cannot be treason & yet it will have as fatal an effect on Cavagnac's ^{power} as the discussion of his own facts at justice. I think he is going, if not gone & Nap. will beat him for the Presidency - if the people elect. & the assembly will hardly venture to do so now.

Ever sincerely yours

Wm. L. G. Drake
