I don't see in Lord Lauderdale except the single question he made was that of Lord Lady Holland with whom he dined.
 He wrote to me two days before his arrival, that he came "as a volunteer from you, ~~because of~~ some ~~other~~ "in abundance of ~~other~~ repeated, but the I said not believe I asked me to give you some of other just to see him & of bilious ^{has} said ~~that~~ the day after he ^{arrived} I found out, Sunday, & all the things ~~that~~ I made up about ~~the~~ I didn't think about it. I must be running down him no more.
 I found him the same simple & friendly as I found him - from his ~~own~~ found him - from his ~~own~~ at his "Master's" great ~~to~~ I thought some to as all must improve his abilities in the house are excellent but & all his remarks just rational & useful.
 The excellent Mr. Dumas is laboring to collect information that may be useful to his country. I am afraid England is so much more a country of layers than of institutions that it will find it difficult to seize on any thing applicable to the case, or the wants of France.

Then will your book appear dear Guizot. I think I read a subscription to think of you among many other noble & energetic spirits. Who people you to think & say you live before me then worthy companion of the great. May you inspire some of them with the right into your countrymen!
I have not a word to be done now, I have a pain. My husband confirms in him never been since all the world's common.
Mr. de Lavergne pretends that we are going military. I don't believe it. We go to see our picturesque country & novelty for us & our magnificent ships our favorites at last. But I do not think any thing is changed in the temper of the people.
