After reading your admirable letter to Henry, dearest Sir, I want to thank you for the pure & high satisfaction which the continuous plating of so much wisdom gives. One rises into a region above the ~~quanta~~ ~~resistance~~ of passion & the currents of interest. You may suppose I hear a great deal of what Montaigne Guizot says & that & does, or will do: ~~He~~ ~~generally~~ I know nothing, from external sources, of the truth or false hood of these reports, but I have an easy & almost infallible way of deciding. I ask myself what man qualities which distinguish him, one & the same? I need not tell you that our lament with our whole heart over France. She appears doomed to show to the world how difficult, how almost impossible, it is to get out of a career of violence - Government from a series of reprisals. Still this can be closed there is nothing but variety of evils. When I look back to the Paris we lived in, I find it almost impossible to believe that human folly can go so far. A government not only so actually good & free, but so susceptible of every kind of reform. Human by wisdom & experience! When I saw M. le President's name in the list, how the day flashed back upon my memory, when as I went in to breakfast

...their part or that of the public! The Government, taking not the smallest cog in the machine of the affair! These are my husband's active questions that will occupy our grandchildren's generation probably - but how much is the solution advanced for such a discussion as this!

Do you remember poor John Winstanley whom I brought with his young wife, to present to you one evening.
You may imagine the scene.
I am certain caused by that most horrid catastrophe of the time.
Lenny has heard from the poor wife - left with her two babes. She writes in a collected manner - too kind so. She evidently hopes - There is some faint possibility of another boat, which she of course things to.

This will be given to you by my kind neighbours.
Lady Easthope - alas neighbours are no longer. They have left Newbridge & go for the present to Paris. They will be an immense loss to me.

I am suffering from a very bad attack of grippe but it will go off. My lung is well again & the heart

My husband says "tell Mr Guizot I subscribe to every word in his letter. It is the only thing I have read that exactly states the case; but I always said Monsieur Guizot had the rare faculty of seeing realities." My kindest love to dear Pauline.
Yours faithfully attached Charlotte.
