Dearest November night.

It will be some days before I can collect all the information you want during which time I must have you think I am yet occupied about it. Un-happily my arm is not so well, & I write with much pain & difficulty, than I did - Patience!
You will know that good will is not wanting.

The elder Berry was Mary (H. Walpole's Berry) the younger or Agnes, died just. By C. Lindsay, before either.

you shall have the dates. Miss B. left her address & correspondence to her husband Lewis (her father) he did not write them. Tell me what you think what his widow thought. He was quite dissatisfied in them, especially the work publishing. When it was over, when said, George took them to her, his wife, a lady (the widow) did not like this arrangement, & did not think her the right person.
He thought of T. - we considered about making a popular book. This was a [illegible]

He did not like people to know what he did not. He wrote absurd criticisms on Goethe, whom he treated as le dernier des absurdes.

But Jeffrey was kind, generous, an excellent friend - & had great talents. There is a life of him, w^h you should see.
I will get it for you.

In 1840, my dear husband, who had returned ill from Malta, in '38, was much worse. Lucy was married that year, & we started immediately after, for Carlisle.

But I saw you, & you saw me. at Sandown House & I introduced me to you. I dined with you at the Embassy. - You see my memory is good. I shall I think be satisfied with your mention of my husband. You saw & felt what really distinguished him. I am not satisfied with the Art. in the Edin^g - nor are his best friends.
