My dear Sir

I send you a little work of mine which I venture to think may interest you. It is the part of an article on Lamartine which I have written for the Edinburgh Review, which will appear at the beginning of next January.

There is something in manuscript in the form of proofs, but They are more authentic than the articles itself, since it is Lopelle that Lord Jeffrey, who is acting as Editor, may alter that in the last revise.

We were very welcome Paris just before you returned thither. I have however thought when I am there in May next, I may have the happiness of finding you there. I followed your advice in visiting

Esau Bonnet, & Caunteret, & between them & Bassere de Bregmes & Bianche we have 3 very agreeable months. I prefer the Pyrenees living mountains that I know, as a residence. Every where else the summits are wet & cold. In the Pyrenees, at 6 or 7000 feet high it is warm & dry.

We shall all be very anxious to hear of your well fare.

I of that of your daughter & son. We hoped to have seen him in Paris, but I suppose that better party would find out the other.

With our united best regards to all your circle

Believe me

my dear Sir

Yours very truly

Wm. W. W. W.
