My dear Monsieur Guizot -

I received your letter on Holy Thursday morning - and I went at once by train to Bushey, but found on arriving that the Duc de Nemours had started a few minutes before to attend service at the French Chapel in London near Portman Square. I started to town & drove to the Chapel & left my name ~~sent~~ at the private entrance with the attendant, asking to be allowed the honour of speaking to the Duke when he came out from the service. He came out in about an hour & a half and I ~~was introduced to the~~ private house & he received me very graciously & I presented you note, apologizing to H. R. H. for the liberty I had taken, but explaining that having failed in finding him at home & the next day being Good Friday, I thought it better to do so - I offered should it be necessary to take the answer to foreign policy - you myself. He replied that he thought you are going did not think that he should find France. I trust on reading the note, though feeling to a speedy turn the greatest admiration for you, the nation will that the business would be of socialism with so important a nature as to whenever it does justify him in putting me to the its hideous head inconvenience of undertaking a journey - but I think I then, under to all your dear

- stood him to say he would send Believe me the answer to forward to you.
As I have not yet heard from A.R.H.
I write to ask you if you have - and if you will tell me whether you think I committed any indiscretion in waiting for the Duke at the French Chapel. I am sorry that the Duc de Broglie is no longer in England He seems a most amiable man but I was sorry to see that he felt a certain amount of rancour at England's

We go next Mon 143 King's
B.
We shall be the of May & then Where we have near Christian hope to enjoy a quiet in that the answer to foreign policy - What a terrible at he should find France - I trust it may come ste, though leading to a speedy termination & that irations for you the nation will learn to put down would be of socialism with a high hand nature as to whenever it dares again to show getting me to the its hideous head - undertaking a Many tender messages think I then wish to all your dear family - if he would send forward to you or heard from N.R.H.

Believe me

Dear Dr. Guizot

Very affecly yr
