

1613 - Matthieu Berjon - Trésor de l'histoire des langues de cet univers - BM Lyon

642 Histoire de l'Origine des

462 William E. Shafer

that had been promised in the Carta de Carmona in 1293. In doing so, he was following the lead of his predecessor, Alfonso X, who had also been disappointed in the Carta de Carmona when it came to the Jews. In the Carta de Carmona, Alfonso X had promised the Jews that they would be able to continue to practice their religion in peace and that they would be able to continue to live in the city of Seville. However, when the time came to fulfill these promises, Alfonso X had been disappointed. In the Carta de Carmona, Alfonso X had promised the Jews that they would be able to continue to practice their religion in peace and that they would be able to continue to live in the city of Seville. However, when the time came to fulfill these promises, Alfonso X had been disappointed. In the Carta de Carmona, Alfonso X had promised the Jews that they would be able to continue to practice their religion in peace and that they would be able to continue to live in the city of Seville. However, when the time came to fulfill these promises, Alfonso X had been disappointed.

Mots-clésEncyclopédies spécialisées

Fichier issu d'une page EMAN : <http://eman-archives.org/ThresorsRenaissance/files/show/182997>